Stephen Nalley

Assistant Administrator for Resource and Technology Management

Duties

Stephen Nalley is the Assistant Administrator (AA) for Resource and Technology Management and is responsible for leading and directing all of EIA's mission support functions, including workforce recruitment and development, IT infrastructure and security, financial and contract administration, and a range of logistical support activities. The AA for Resource and Technology Management also integrates EIA's long-term planning activities across administrative and programmatic functions and serves as the agency's senior representative on cross-cutting Departmental committees and forums.

Biography

Steve possesses over 30 years of professional experience, most of which has been spent supporting EIA in various capacities. His prior work includes five years as the Director of EIA's Office of Planning, Budget, Procurement, and Evaluation, in which role he directed the agency's budget formulation activities, oversaw a comprehensive support service acquisition strategy, and led EIA's program evaluation efforts.

Steve's EIA tenure also includes two years as a Contracting Officer's Representative for the Office of Oil and Gas, where he was the senior contract liaison and business analyst for EIA's largest program office in terms of resource allocations. As a supervisory Energy Economist, he also led EIA's Natural Gas Survey Data Team for six years, during which time he was charged with enhancing the scope of that program's data coverage, improving the efficiency of the team's business processes, and ensuring the overall quality of EIA's monthly and annual natural gas statistics.

Prior to joining federal service, Steve was a program manager for a government contractor, where he managed a broad portfolio of survey data operations, IT development, and analytical support efforts spanning the energy sector. He also has extensive private sector experience as a petroleum data analyst and quality assurance director.

Steve received a B.A. in Political Science from the University of Maryland.
